Larkins Is Promoter Of Beef Industry

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Clele L. Ranch owner Carlton R. Larkins of Coffee County is a real promoter of the beef industry. He was recently elected a state director at large in the Alabama Cattlemen's Association.

Larkins has been active in beef production work since he retired from the Navy in 1953 and organized the Circle L. Ranch. He became president of the county cattlemen's association in 1958 and 1959 and organized the special December and April fat calf sales. The first sale attracted 30 head of cattle, and only two were good enough to grade U. S. Good. The last sale in April of this year brought in 942 head and attracted buyers from three states. Sixty per cent of the cattle graded Good or better.

Two Needs

Commenting on the future of the beef industry, Larkins said, "A good program of parasite control and better bulls are two things that we need most in improving the quality of beef cattle. Cattle should be free from horn flies and cattle grubs at all times." He continued, "Select a performance tested bull — a poor quality bull is the most expensive one a man can get even if he gets it free."

County Agent J. R. Speed stated that Larkins isn't officially on the production testing program, but that he uses several of the techniques which are being promoted. The producer maintains a herd of 70 animals on his 450 acres of land. The herd consists of Hereford cows with Santa Gertrudis bulls. "As a result of his cross breeding and testing program," Speed related, "His calves are now averaging 100 pounds heavier than before."

Larkins concluded, "The cattlemen's association has organized special sales to inspire farmers to improve their herds. Every farmer producing cattle should be a member of his county association."

Dorsey "Golden" Trailer Leaves ...

The specially-built trailer, which was on exhibit during the Dorsey National Sales Convention in March, is attracting nationwide attention visiting state capitals and Dorsey Distributors. It is also being greeted by state presidents and managers of the American Trucking Association affiliates, as well as mayors and other public officials.

Dorsey's role as a major supplier to the nation's vital trucking industry, one of the leading industries in Alabama, and the third largest trailer manufacturer with world-wide distribution, is a contributing factor to America's economy. Dorsey trailers are in use throughout the entire 50 states, Latin America, Europe, and every country in the world where trailers are in operation.

The "Golden" trailer on tour is a traffic-stopper that is creating national publicity for Elba, Coffee County and Alabama as well as for Dorsey Trailers.

T. K. Dorsey, Executive Vice President and Director of Sales, bids driver good-bye as Dorsey "Golden" Trailer starts on U. S. tour from State Capitol in Montgomery. James L. Ritchie, at right of Mr. Dorsey, is General Manager of the Alabama Trucking Association.

A NEW STAR IN THE WEST...

A popularity contest for John Fitzgerald Kennedy in the South right now would undoubtedly find him pretty near the bottom. Yet he carried every Southern state in the presidential election.

There is no way of to know how much this may be credited to the fact that a few million voters may have thought little more of Richard Milhous Nixon than of Kennedy.

A Democrat with much of these sentiments recently upset both the Democratic and Republican machines in one of the largest cities in the country, a city with a bigger population than that of many a state.

He is Sam Yorty, new mayor of Los Angeles, California.

Note these facts about Yorty: (1) born in Nebraska; (2) a lawyer and long-time member of the California legislature; (3) opposed as much by radicals as by reactionaries; (4) though a Democrat, he's a bitter foe of California's Democratic Governor Pat Brown; (5) says Yorty of Kennedy: "He has destroyed the integrity of the Democratic Party by the abuse of the power of his vast amounts of money, and a calculated exploitation of his religious affiliation."

As mayor of one of the nation's largest cities, Yorty will gain executive experience to add to his proved experience as a legislator.

Since millions of voters in the South believe that the national leadership of neither the Democratic nor the Republican parties represent the South's best interests, then Sam Yorty may be a leader the South could follow with enthusiasm.

He is a man to watch, particularly if he disposes of both Pat Brown and Richard Nixon to become governor of California next year.

21 YEARS AGO...

FROM OUR EARLY FILES...

The census figures were disappointing to the people of Elba as they showed that the population in the last ten years has decreased. They showed that the population will be only 2,361 as compared with a total of 2,529 ten years ago, or a decrease of 162.

Mrs. Whitman was a delightful hostess at her home as she entertained the Past Time Rook Club. Roses and other summer flowers were combined in attractive decorations about her home.

Rook was enjoyed at four tables after which the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Ida Isabel Whitman, and Mary Kendrick, Betty Jean Bullard, and Olive Ray Kendrick, served a delicious salad plate with punch.

Guests were Mrs. John Bonneau, Mrs. Geo. Collier, Mrs. F. F. Clark, Mrs. J. O. English, Mrs. T. D. Kendrick, Mrs. Gordon Prescott, Mrs. Drayden Smith, Mrs. Morgan Windham, Mrs. W. L. Walsh, Mrs. Sam Young, Mrs. T. T. Rhodes, Mrs. Spencer Ziglar and the hostess, Mrs. Whitman.

John W. Brock, runner-up in the primary, defeated J. A. Carnley by a majority of 375 votes, according to complete but unofficial figures.

Mrs. Emma Margaret Cooper, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Cooper, received her diploma from the University of Alabama. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Education with a major in English.

Sixth Birthday Is Occasion For Party

Little James Ronald Craft was honored on his sixth birthday June 7, with a party at his home. After games were played and presents opened, his mother, Mrs. James Craft, served ice cream, cake and lemonade.

Those enjoying the party, other than James Ronald and his mother, were Sue and Linda Craft, Diane and Wayne Chancelor, Donna and Junior Dupree, Tommy Bouwell, Mrs. George Craft and Mrs. Louise Dupree.

Golden Wedding Is Afternoon Tea Occasion

Judge and Mrs. J. O. English were honored Sunday afternoon, June 11, when their children Mr. and Mrs. Harold English and Mrs. James Byrd, and Mrs. English's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Kimmy were hosts at a lovely tea at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kimmy, in observance of the 50th Wedding Anniversary of Judge and Mrs. English.

The rooms open to guests were decorated with massive arrangements of yellow glads and mums. The refreshment table in the dining room was covered with white net over yellow. Festoons of yellow and white burlap decorated the table and formed bows at the corners. In the center of the table was a unique gold candleholder. On the other end of the table was a four-tiered wedding cake with a base of yellow and white ruffled net. The cake held a top adornment of a miniature bride and groom encased by a gold arch. On the other end of the table was a crystal punch bowl in a nest of dainty yellow and white flowers. The color theme was further emphasized in the refreshments.

Virginia Lee Dorsey registered the guests. Mrs. Wesley Pains cut the wedding cake, and Mrs. Frank Rainer, Jr., poured punch. Mrs. Joel Murphree and Mrs. Frances Harris served other dainty refreshments. Mrs. Walter Pittman, Jr., and Mrs. Stanley Clark presided in the rooms where the gifts were displayed.

Late in the afternoon the bride changed from her wedding gown to a dress of white tulle and a tucked jacket bordered with tulle and embroidery in shades of brown and green. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

On their return they will live in Scottsboro for the summer.

E. J. Lucas To Be Guest Speaker At Enterprise Temple

E. J. "Lake" Lucas, former general sales manager for Dorsey Trailers, will be guest speaker at the installation of officers ceremony in the Coffee Chapter and Council of York Rite Bodies, which will follow the banquet to be held Saturday evening, July 1, at the Masonic Temple in Enterprise.

Mr. Lucas, who is well-known in business circles as a public speaker, accepted the invitation to address the Masonic group because he is a member of the fraternity and also because of the opportunity of speaking engagement will afford him to again meet some of the many friends he knew during his association with Dorsey in Elba.

Robert E. (Bob) Mason, Dorsey Trailers sales promotion manager, will act as master of ceremonies in introducing the principal speaker, distinguished guests, and officers newly-elected to posts in the Chapter and Council of the Enterprise Masonic Temple. Elected to an office in the Council, he has completed work in the York Rite Bodies, is a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason, and a member of Alcazar (Shrine) Temple in Montgomery.

Some Wisehaup Highlights...

Here are a few of the highlights of remarks made by E. J. Wisehaup, nationally known "doctor of business", in the course of several appearance in Elba this week:

There are dollars in smiles. There is money in friendliness. A cheerful "Good morning" not only makes you feel more confident but makes the person you meet feel better. A big industrialist had a site selected for a factory in Georgia. The head of the firm thought he would drive down the square and saw a man coming out of a store with a bank deposit bag, and immediately recognized him as the proprietor. "Looks like a nice town you have here," said the industrialist. "It's a nice town but if I could sell my business today I would move out tomorrow," replied the proprietor. That industrialist was left so cold that he decided to locate his plant elsewhere.

I was in New York City recently and met my old friend Ross King who handles as much money as any single man in the United States. "What are you doing now?" he asked. "I've been giving this past year to Alabama," he replied. "Oh, Alabama has been re-discovered," I replied. "Working Alabama," he said, I tell you, money and industry you going to let it all go some cities that are as wide-awake as you could be?"

There are no longer any small towns. Television has changed all that. There are either big cities or little cities.

Your market changes completely every ten years. Those children ten years old you see going to school today are going to be 20 years old ten years from now, getting married, selecting careers. They will have seen 10 years of television, magazines, newspapers, and travel that your customers today haven't seen. Their tastes will be different.

If I were mayor of Elba I wouldn't stand for any store displaying its wares on the sidewalks. And if I lacked an ordinance to stop it I would certainly try to get one.

Goods have become standardized. As soon as one manufacturer finds his competition has made a better product, he makes one just as good or better. The merchandise in your stores is the same merchandise in the stores in Dothan and Montgomery. But do you tell the people about it?

In my travels over this country I see in a state of change. One-time cross-roads villages are now cities, but I have noticed just as much the one-time flourishing communities that are now empty "ghost towns." I have seen business districts, with brick buildings three stories high, with what they had until they suddenly realized, too late, they had nothing.

I told these things to a little town over in Mississippi named Greenwood. When I went back three years later, half the downtown stores had new fronts. When I went back five years later all the stores had new fronts.

On July 1, some farmers having cattle brands registered with the State Department of Agriculture and Industries will receive notice that their brand expires on October 1, 1961, according to Wm. S. Perry, chief of State Brands Dept. of Agriculture.

This notice, ninety days prior to the expiration date, meets the provisions of Alabama's brand law and every owner of a registered brand can retain the exclusive use of his brand for an additional five-year period if he so desires. Application forms are enclosed with each notice and should be executed and mailed immediately with a check to the Division of Stockyards and Brands, Box 220, Montgomery, Ala.

The registration fee of $2.00 for each location on an animal the brand is used to insure the owner of its exclusive use until October 1, 1966. All brands expire every five years. They remain the property of the original registrant as long as he keeps it renewed. Branding is not compulsory but the use of an unregistered brand is illegal and carries serious penalties. Since the passage of a law providing a system of state-wide brand registration on October 1, 1951, hundreds of cattle have been recovered as strays and returned to their owners. The small percentage of branded cattle reported stolen clearly indicates the value of branding as a safeguard against rustlers. Over 3,500 cattlemen have availed themselves of this protection. As Alabama takes its place among the leading cattle states of the Nation, the importance of brands grows accordingly.

Mr. Gunter states that cotton farmers could be penalized to a considerable degree if they do not dispose of the excess cotton. The reason for this is stated in that if a farmer stays overplanted he forfeits his right to receive price support and, in addition, will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on each pound of excess cotton. The rate of penalty is 19.5 cents per pound.

Mr. Gunter pointed out that the cotton farmers with excess cotton acreage have 10 days after the date of the county committee's original notice of excess cotton acreage in which to dispose of the excess acreage. Also any request for remanufacture or overplanted farms must be made within 15 days from the date the notice of overplanting is mailed.

On Sunday afternoon, July 2, the Youth of the Elba Assembly of God Church will present their regular 18 Sunday Gospel Sing. Several singing groups will be present. Singing will be from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

TIME MARCHES ON
Fifteen years ago, a farmer could net $3,000 if he crossed $8,000 on his operation. Today, he would have to gross $10,000 to get the $3,000 net. And one year a farmer will have to sell $15,000 worth of goods just to get $3,000 in net income.

No Price Aid For Overplanted Land

Farmers who overplant their 1961 cotton allotment and do not dispose of the excess acreage after being notified will be ineligible for Government Price Support on all cotton produced on the farm, states Leonard Gunter, chairman of the Coffee County ASC Committee.

Mr. Gunter states that cotton farmers could be penalized to a considerable degree if they do not dispose of the excess cotton. The reason for this is stated in that if a farmer stays overplanted he forfeits his right to receive price support and, in addition, will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on each pound of excess cotton. Customers and Store Profit...

Here is a picture proof of how customers and store profit from advertising as Bill's Dollar Store opened last week on the Public Square in Elba. Because of advertising, the store was able to move merchandise faster, lower cost. Customers profited from the lower costs. Management proved its good faith by publishing its prices without fear of competition. This scene is typical of the crowds which surged through Bill's Dollar Store for days after the Grand Opening.
